 2 States, including California and this Judicial District.

3 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

4 6. The Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant 5 to the trademark and copyright laws of the United States, Title 15 U.S.C., and the 6 federal Trademark Act 15 U.S.C. §§ 1125 and 1051 et seq., the federal Copyright
 7 Act, 17 U.S.C. § 101 et seq., 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1338(a), and pursuant to the 8 Declaratory Judgment Act 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201(a) and 2202. Plaintiffs further request
 9 that this Court order cancellation of the STICKERBEANS mark pursuant to 15
 10 U.S.C. § 1119. This Court also has jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 11 1332(a), as a matter between citizens of different states in which the matter in 12 controversy exceeds the sum of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs.

13 7. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b)
 14 and (c), because Defendant conducts business in this District, and/or a substantial part 15 of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred in this Judicial District.

16 FACTS COMMON TO ALL COUNTS

17 8. StickerBeans designs, manufactures and sells a line of sticker products 18 that are adorned with clear and colored rhinestones intended to “mimic the hand-set 19 Swarovski crystal designs....on social media and in high-end boutiques in the New 20 York City area.” (See www.stickerbeans.com).

21 9. On or about November 22, 2016, StickerBeans obtained a U.S. Trademark 22 Registration for the character mark “STICKERBEANS” in international class 16 for 23 “stickers”, but during its application StickerBeans expressly disclaimed the term
 24 “STICKER,” likely because it is descriptive of the very products it sells.
 25 Accordingly, StickerBeans trademark is inherently weak and offers little protection to 26 Defendant.

27 10. StickerBeans has not obtained any registration or other legal protection 28 for its trade dress – whether the design of its sticker products or its packaging – nor

1 has StickerBeans obtained any type of patent for the application of rhinestones to a 2 sticker product.

3 11. In or about August 2016, CIA was retained by StickerBeans to prepare a 4 standardized logo for its sticker business using its pre-existing color scheme, design a 5 retail display and backer card packaging for its sticker products, and perform a re-
6 design their webpage. CIA and StickerBeans did not execute any type of written 7 agreement governing the terms and conditions of the engagement.

8 12. Through this engagement, StickerBeans provided to CIA the following
9 documents and/or information to assist in CIA's performance of its services: logo art 10 file, sample of printed package, pictures of product and pictures of models displaying 11 product, dieline for corrugated hanging display, and a wholesale pricing sheet (for the 12 purpose of redesigning the graphics). Notably, despite, as discussed below, now
13 claiming that the documents and/or information provided to CIA was of a 14 confidential, proprietary or trade secret nature (which it was not), StickerBeans neither 15 demanded nor obtained any type of confidentiality or non-disclosure agreement from 16 CIA before providing these documents and/or information, nor did it identify, advise 17 or restrict (i.e. through the use of passwords or other electronic security mechanisms)
18 the use or dissemination of these documents and/or information in any way. As a 19 result of StickerBeans treatment of these documents and/or information, such 20 documents and/or information cannot be considered trade secrets as a matter of 21 California or Federal law.

22 13. CIA terminated its relationship with StickerBeans in February 2017.

23 14. In or about January, 2017, Lavitt and Levine formed Etel to design,
24 produce, distribute and/or sell a line of rhinestone sticker products under the trade
25 name "Sticker Bling Bling." The sticker products designed and sold by Etel are 26 admittedly of a similar nature and quality to those sold by StickerBeans. Etel sells its 27 line of sticker products through independent sales representatives to small and mid-
28 size retailers within the state of California, and online through Amazon.com.

17. As a result of StickerBeans fraudulent acts and statements as alleged herein, Plaintiffs have and continue to suffer substantial injury and damage, and have lost gains, profits and/or advantages, which it would otherwise have obtained, but for StickerBeans' acts.

Declaration Of Non-Infringement, Invalidity, Unenforceability, and Cancellation Of Alleged Trademark Registration No. 5,088,211 – 28 U.S.C. §§
2201 et seq. and 15 U.S.C. §§ 1119 & 1064

19. On information and belief, prior to the date of StickerBeans purported trademark and trade dress adoption as disclosed in U.S. Registration No. 5,088,211 (“StickerBeans Registration”), third parties developed and first introduced clear and colored rhinestones into individual sticker products, using designs, logos or pictures that are common to a variety of industries and sectors, and for which StickerBeans does not own any exclusive rights to the images or designs for use on sticker products.

20. Moreover, a simple Google search for “rhinestone stickers” reveals numerous competitors who manufacture and sell similar sticker products, including at: Top Trenz – http://www.toptrenz.com/emoji-sticker-BLINGY-BLINGY-appliques-p/\_blst4-over.htm (notably stating “We have been carrying those BLINGY stickers in our line since 2003”); Michael’s – <http://www.michaels.com/embellishments/bling/809188550> ; and Etsy -- https://www.etsy.com/market/rhinestone\_stickers

21. On information and belief, the alleged designs and trade dress is used on sticker products offered for sale and sold, and that have long been offered for sale, sold, and are currently being sold, by others in the sticker industry.

22. Upon information and belief, StickerBeans does not have any valid proprietary trademark, patent or other monopolistic rights to its sticker designs or for the use of clear or colored rhinestones on sticker products.

23. On information and belief, the alleged trade dress does not include protectable trade dress, it is not inherently distinctive, has not acquired secondary meaning, and, therefore, cannot function as a source indicator.

24. Plaintiffs do not infringe, and have not infringed, any protectable trademark and/or trade dress packaging rights of StickerBeans, which is usually displayed along with StickerBeans word mark, as demonstrated below:

25. Despite StickerBeans attempt to claim trademark and/or trade dress protection over its sticker designs and packaging, its sticker designs and packaging are wholly dissimilar to Plaintiffs' Sticker Bling Bling products, and do not constitute a valid and protectable trademark because the product features do not serve as a source identifier for StickerBeans, and if enforced, would "put competitors at a significant, non-reputation-related disadvantage." Clicks Billiards Inc. v. Sixshooters Inc., 251 F.3d 1252, 1258 (9th Cir. 2001) (internal quotation marks omitted).

26. Pursuant to Section 37 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1119, this Court is empowered to order cancellation of trademark registrations in any civil action in which the validity of the mark is placed in issue.

27. Pursuant to Section 14 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1064(3), a registered mark may be cancelled at any time if the registered mark is descriptive.

28. Plaintiffs respectfully submit that they are entitled to a declaration from this Court that Plaintiffs have not infringed any protectable trademark and/or trade dress right by advertising or selling their Sticker Bling Bling line of rhinestone sticker

1 products; StickerBeans has no rights in the alleged trade dress as it does not serve as a
 2 source identifier, that StickerBeans has no valid protectable rights to the StickerBeans
 3 Registration, and that said registration should be cancelled; StickerBeans is barred
 4 from asserting any claim for infringement of the alleged trademark or trade dress
 5 against Plaintiffs; and Plaintiffs have not engaged in unfair competition or false
 6 designation of origin.

7 COUNT II

8 Declaratory Judgment of No Trademark Infringement, Unfair Competition, 9 Misappropriation of Advertising Ideas or Trade Secrets or Dilution – 28 U.S.C.

10 §§ 2201 et seq. and 15 U.S.C. § 1125

11 29. Plaintiffs hereby re-allege and incorporate the allegations in paragraphs 1 12 to 28 of the complaint as if fully set forth herein.

13 30. Plaintiffs assert that they are entitled to a declaratory judgment that 14 StickerBeans does not own a famous mark for any alleged trade dress in a rhinestone
 15 sticker product or the advertising and/or packaging of such, nor does StickerBeans
 16 own any famous mark such that Plaintiffs' sale of the Sticker Bling Bling line of 17 sticker products would purportedly dilute any alleged right of StickerBeans.

18 31. Plaintiffs assert that they are entitled to a declaratory judgment that 19 StickerBeans does not have any valid, protectable proprietary rights to the 20 manufacturing (including the identity of the manufacturer it uses) marketing,
 21 promotion, and sale of the sticker products adorned with clear or colored rhinestones,
 22 and Plaintiffs' manufacture, promotion, advertising or sale of its sticker products does 23 not constitute trademark or trade dress infringement, false designation of origin or false
 24 advertising, or misappropriation of advertising ideas or trade secrets, or unfair
 25 competition under Section 43 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125, California law or 26 at common law.

27 32. Plaintiffs' Sticker Bling Bling sticker products are not likely to be confused
 28 as to the source, origin, and/or sponsorship with StickerBeans' sticker products,

1 including its advertising, promotion or packaging of such products, because, as shown 2 above, the parties incorporate different markings on their respective products, the 3 differences in marketing channels through which each party's products are 4 respectively sold, the expensive nature of StickerBeans' products, and the absence of 5 any evidence of actual confusion in the marketplace.

6 33. As discussed above, numerous third parties and competitors pre-existed
7 StickerBeans entrance into the sticker marketplace, and continue to exist; thus,
8 Plaintiffs have not unfairly competed or misappropriated StickerBeans' advertising
9 ideas, to the extent such are in any way protectable.

10 34. In addition, neither CIA nor Lavitt were provided any documents and/or 11 information of StickerBeans that can be considered or construed as trade secret
12 information as defined by California's Uniform Trade Secrets Act, Civil Code §
13 3426.1(d), as no written agreement between StickerBeans and CIA or Lavitt exists 14 governing the parties' engagement or the provision/receipt of documents intended to 15 be considered confidential, and StickerBeans has no policies in place to protect and/or 16 secure its confidential documents and/or information; accordingly, StickerBeans has 17 not and did not take any reasonable precautions to ensure that the documents and/or 18 information provided to CIA and Lavitt were deemed to be confidential to the 19 Company, or that such information was not publicly available from other sources.

20 35. Accordingly, Plaintiffs are entitled to a declaratory judgment that 21 StickerBeans has no valid protectable rights to the purported trade dress of its sticker
22 designs and/or packaging, that Plaintiffs have not infringed or diluted any of 23 StickerBeans purported trademark or trade dress rights, and that Plaintiffs have not 24 misappropriated any of StickerBeans advertising ideas or trade secrets in promoting,
25 advertising, and selling their Sticker Bling Bling products.
26
27
28

COUNT III

Declaratory Judgment of Non-Infringement of Copyright – 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, 2202

36. Plaintiffs hereby re-allege and incorporate the allegations in paragraphs 1 to 35 of the complaint as if fully set forth herein.

37. StickerBeans claims that its sticker designs is protected under the U.S. Copyright Act, but has not identified which sticker designs it is alleging are being infringed, or the copyright registrations it has obtained for such designs.

38. StickerBeans has made it clear to Plaintiffs through explicit threats of litigation that it intends to claim that Plaintiffs have infringed its copyrights.

39. By reason of StickerBeans' claims of copyright infringement, Plaintiffs are uncertain as to its rights with respect to one or more of its sticker product designs unless the issues between StickerBeans and Plaintiffs are resolved.

40. This action is brought under the provisions of 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202 for the purpose of determining a question in actual controversy between the parties.

COUNT IV

Declaratory Judgment of Invalidity of Non-Competition Restrictions – 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, 2202

41. Plaintiffs hereby re-allege and incorporate the allegations in paragraphs 1 to 40 of the complaint as if fully set forth herein.

42. The State of California has a fundamental public policy against contracts that prevent workers from engaging in their lawful business endeavours. California Business and Professions Code § 16600 provides in pertinent part that "every contract by which anyone is restrained from engaging in a lawful profession, trade, or business of any kind is to that extent void."

43. An actual, present, and justiciable controversy has arisen between StickerBeans, on the one hand, and CIA, Lavitt and/or Etel, on the other hand, regarding the enforceability of StickerBeans' demand that CIA, Lavitt and Etel (a)

1 “provide written assurances that you will not move forward with entering into any 2 purchase orders or other contracts or agreements with any third parties” to sell the 3 Sticker Bling Bling products,” (b) as to Lavitt only, “immediately cease, desist and 4 refrain from taking any action in violation of your continuing duties to the Company
 5 [StickerBeans],” (c) “immediately cease, desist and refrain from contacting 6 [StickerBeans’] factory, and its suppliers,” and (d) “immediately cease, desist and 7 refrain from otherwise competing with the Company [StickerBeans]” (together, the 8 “Non-Competition Restrictions”).

9 44. CIA, Lavitt and/or Etel contend that the Non-Competition Restrictions
 10 demanded by StickerBeans are governed by California law and are invalid and 11 unenforceable as a matter of law under California Business and Professions Code §
 12 16600 for multiple reasons, including that no written non-competition restrictions exist 13 or were ever agreed to.

14 45. Unless the Non-Competition Restrictions are invalidated, Lavitt and Etel
 15 will not be able to operate and/or manage their business of designing, manufacturing 16 and selling sticker products.

17 46. Based on StickerBeans’ counsel’s March 24, 2017 letter, StickerBeans
 18 contends that the Non-Competition Restrictions are enforceable and that it is entitled to 19 specific performance of those provisions, which would preclude Lavitt and Etel from 20 engaging in business with prospective customers.

21 47. Accordingly, CIA, Lavitt and Etel seek a judicial declaration that the Non-
 22 Competition Restrictions are unenforceable.

23 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

24 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff Plaintiffs pray for judgment against Defendant
 25 Wishbone Collection, LLC d/b/a StickerBeans as follows:

26 A. For a declaration from this Court that the Defendant has no valid, 27 protectable proprietary rights in the trademark and/or alleged trade dress, which is 28 invalid, unenforceable, generic, and descriptive;

1 B. A declaration that Plaintiffs' marketing, advertising, promotion, and sale
2 of the Sticker Bling Bling sticker products has not infringed Defendant's purported
3 trademark and/or trade dress rights in the StickerBeans Registration;

4 C. Cancellation of U.S. Registration No. 5,088,211;

5 D. A declaration that Plaintiffs' advertising, marketing, promotion, and sale
6 of the Sticker Bling Bling sticker products does not constitute trademark or trade 7 dress infringement, false designation of origin or false advertising, or the 8 misappropriation of advertising idea or trade secrets, or unfair competition under 9 Section 43 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125, under California law, or at 10 common law;

11 E. A declaration that Plaintiffs' advertising, marketing, promotion, and sale
12 of the Sticker Bling Bling sticker products does not dilute any alleged famous mark
13 owned by Defendant;

14 F. For an injunction preventing any further interference with 15 Plaintiffs, its customers, manufacturers, retailers and suppliers;

16 G. For costs of suit incurred, including, but not limited to reasonable 17 attorneys' fees;

18 H. That this Court grant such other and further relief that it deems just and 19 proper.
